Lutterworth library gets 6 month reprieve

The Lutterworth library has been given a reprieve.

Armed with a petition with over 100 names, township resident and former deputy reeve, Glynne Lewis persuaded Lutterworth council at the November 20 meeting to leave the facility open until May 1, 1987, giving him time to find a new home for it.

Council closed the library last month because of the township's acute need for space (the library is located in the basement of the municipal building), and declining interest.

"It was easy to get names," Lewis said in an interview. "Most people were only too happy to sign."

He said it took only three or four days to gather the signatures.

Though Lewis indicated he had a building in mind for the library, he declined to name it.

In its discussion of the closure, council also considered the possibility of finding a new building for the library, but it was agreed that the cost of a new one would be prohibitive and that nothing suitable was available for rent.

The closing of the library last month however, sparked considerable opposition among township residents.

"Many of the people who signed the petition said they didn't even know there was a township library," said Glynne Lewis. "They were angry because nothing had been done to publicize it ... How can council expect people to use the library when no one knows it's there."

County library board chairman Jane Franklin said that although her board is disappointed in Lutter-worth council's plan to close the library, the board cannot help them find new accommodation for the library.

Franklin added that council is within its rights to close the Lutterworth library but that under the present system the township is still bound to support the county library.

In passing the resolution to close the facility, reeve Bill Valentine said that the needs of Lutterworth residents could be met by the Minden library to the north and by the Norland library to the south.

In presenting his petition however, Lewis argued that many township residents preferred to use their own library, especially in winter when travelling is often difficult.

Committee finds no basis for charges

The County Roads Committee is satisfied that allegations of drunkenness among employees of a contract road construction firm made by Dysart Deputy Reeve Bill Davis at the September 17 County Council meeting were without proper foundation.

"We spoke to two of the three men Davis named as witnesses and they could not produce the necessary evidence," said Roads Committee Chairman Murray Fearrey in an interview.

Fearrey added that, "drunkenness is a very hard thing to prove."

The issue was also discussed at the November 19

County Council meeting.

Davis caused a great deal of controversy when he charged at the September Council meeting that a machine operator had been intoxicated at jobs on county roads six and four. He also said that some of the work being done on county roads was of poor quality.

After the September meeting, Davis indicated that his allegations of drunkenness were with regard to employees of Miller Paving, a Toronto road construction company doing contract work for the county.

Asked to comment on the recent findings of the County Roads Committee, Davis offered no comment.

As a result of a story in The Times last September, representatives of Miller Paving have also expressed concern about the allegations. The company sent Davis a letter, it was reported at last week's Council meeting, requesting him to specify which company he referred to in his charges. Davis did not reply to the letter.

Also as a result of the September Times story, county roads employees from Local 1960 sent a letter to County Council expressing their displeasure at what they charged was the confusion caused by the story between themselves and employees of the contract firm Davis referred to in his allegations. The county employees asked for an apology from the council to be published in this newspaper.

Council hears trail proposal

A proposal to turn the abandoned Lindsay - Haliburton CNR railway line into a trail for hikers, horses, trail bikes, snowmobiles and cross country skiers sparked interest among Haliburton County Council at the November 19 meeting.

Mavis McCullem, president of the Ontario Trail Riders Association, told council that the development of a "multi-use trail" would be a boon for the county tourist industry, capitalizing on an aging Canadian population's need for "non-stressful activities" and the growing interest in mountain bikes.

As well, McCullem said,

Maple dieback worries local farmer

Dwain Wruth is worried about his sugar bush.

Five years ago the leaves on the uppermost branches of some of the maples began to disappear. It was just a few trees at first, nothing at all to worry about, Wruth believed.

But it got worse - quickly.

Now, touring his 1,600 tap bush just outside Lochlin, Wruth can point out whole patches - sometimes more than an acre - where the trees are dead. Rotted and peeling from the top down. The worst affected areas seem to be low lying, though even trees on well drained sandy soil show symptoms of what is now being called maple tree dieback.

The problem is a relatively new one. Though there have been similar cases in the last three decades (there was a small maple tree dieback in the 50's), scientists have found nothing yet, no natural incidence to compare with the present dieback.

In fact, Haliburton County is only on the outskirts of the affected area. It's worst in southern Quebec and northern New York and Vermont States, where not just patches but whole sugar bushes have died. In southern Quebec especially there is panic among maple syrup producers, many of whom face certain bankruptcy if their trees continue to die at present rates.

No one yet knows exactly what's causing the dieback and there is still considerable disagreement as to the seriousness of the problem.

Tom Hutchinson, a University of Toronto professor with the Institute of Environmental Studies has been studying the dieback for the last two years. "We don't yet know what the exact causes are," he admits. "Possibly, it's a number of stresses acting together on the trees." A recent drought in eastern Canada could be one of these and so could acid rain, he says. But he's sure that one of the biggest stresses, perhaps the major one, is air pollution. He says that could well be the reason that the dieback begins at the outermost branches of a tree because it is those leaves that first come into direct contact with airborne particles.

"The jury is out on exact causes," says Hutchinson.

Acid rain might be a major factor, but there just isn't enough evidence pointing in that direction yet.

"But the jury is not out on the seriousness of the problem. It's been going on for the last five years in Quebec and it's getting worse. At present it's extremely serious and frightening. All the growers in that province are convinced there's a problem and that it's spreading.

Hutchinson says it is also bad in the Muskokas. "Just drive around out there and you'll see the dead maples."

Other experts however, don't believe the present maple dieback is so serious. "It's a cyclical thing," says Ministry of Natural Resources forest management supervisor Brian Cross. "Like tent caterpillars and other diseases and pests, dieback is something that happens every few years."

So far, says Cross, the forests have always recovered and there's no reason to believe that the maple population in eastern Canada won't recover as well.

County will assume Outreach Centre administration

Haliburton County will be taking over the job of administering the Outreach Centre from the Chamber of Commerce it was announced at the November 19 County Council meeting.

The changeover will be effective early in 1987.

The Outreach Centre, brought to Haliburton with a grant from Canada Employment and Immigration in 1978, handles job the old railway would give users a chance to look at some of the county's historic buildings and sites. She added that if completed, the trail would become part of a provincial network of historic semi-wilderness trails.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey however questioned the practicality of allowing horses, snowmobiles, and dogs - pets, too, would use the trail, McCullen said - on the same trail. "And I'm not sure about the cost of liability coverage for the scheme either," continued Fearrey.

Other councillors also expressed uncertainty about the possibility of so many different users sharing the same trail.

McCullen argued that multi-use trails have been successful and popular in the United States.

"The railway line is a linear piece of land, which in itself beckons," she pointed out, adding that if, say five years down the road, the county decided to use the trail for something else, this too would be acceptable.

Very little work would have to be done to the railway line to make it work as a trail, McCullen said. Trestle bridges would have to be planked for horses and repaired in some cases, but fences would not be needed. She said that the law requires only that private property be marked with a visible red dot on trees and fence posts along the boundary.

Though some councillors said they believed such a trail would be best owned and operated by the province, it was agreed to look for funding for a feasibility study of the scheme.

placements and Unemployment Insurance claims for the county and surrounding area.

The grant to set up the Outreach Centre was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The reason for the administration change, said Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey, is to protect the directors of the Chamber of Commerce - who are all volunteers - from possible law suits against the Centre in which they could be liable.

Fearrey said that as volunteers, the Chamber administrators could not be expected to purchase for themselves the necessary insurance coverage.

There has been at least one law suit against the Outreach Centre. A case involving wrongful dismissal, it was settled out of court with a payment from the operating budget of the Chamber of Commerce.

The rain continues

The headlines may fade from time to time, but the problem has not gone away. In fact, the longer they take to institute remedial measures, the more difficult it will be to reverse the damage already done.

We refer to the problems created by acid rain and its newly emerging twin, toxic rain. Ever since it became widely known that pollutants carried by rain could have major consequences for our environment, concern has been growing. As seen in the diversity of opinions in this week's article about maple tree dieback, experts may not be able to agree completely on the impact of acid rain and toxic rain, but a general consensus has emerged that continuous deposition of rainwater with heightened acidity or toxicity is harmful to the environment.

The death of maple trees in one county sugar bush may represent an extension of what has been recorded in the province of Quebec or on the crests of the Adirondack Mountains in the New England States, or it may be a purely localized phenomenon. But there is no doubt that our county and country is slowly being changed by the long distance transmission of pollutants. Must we wait until the Highlands resemble the Black Forest region of West Germany, where large stands of timber have died?

The answer, as has always been proposed, lies in abatement. There is no easy answer for those of us on the receiving end of this injustice. There is still much that can be done to pressure our own federal and provincial governments to undertake serious and meaningful measures to eliminate the sources in our country and in the United States.

Even when the stories have disappeared from the media, action is needed. The rain continues to fall, the damage continues to be compounded. At some point it will be irreversible. To wait until then is foolhardy.

Icy fingers.

A medal for chutzpah

- by Arthur Black -

I sure hope Ottawa gets around to minting a Medal for Chutzpah soon, because I can't wait for Canada Post to win one.

Chutzpah? It's a Yiddish term denoting impudence, brass or nerve. Remember the story of skinny David facing the gigantic thug Goliath, armed with nothing more than a slingshot? That's chutzpah. And how about the guy who killed both his parents then threw himself on the mercy of the courts pleading for clemency on the grounds that he was an orphan? That's chutzpah too.

So is the performance of Donald Lander last week. Mr. Lander is the president of Canada Post. He says that Canadians may have to get used to the idea of postal rate increases every year from here on in. Why? In exchange for the improved service, says Mr. Lander.

Oh yeah, right ... that improved service everyone's talking about. Does this mean we can all ask for our money back for the lousy service we've been getting to date?

Wait! Donald Lander's just getting warmed up! He also warned (this was on CTV's Question Period in case you missed it) that yet another national postal strike is looming over the questions of wage freezes, wage rollbacks and other contentious provisions in various union contracts. How is the Post Office going to navigate through these perilous seas? Listen to Mr. Lander:

"I can say that all those elements are going to be addressed and addressed very openly and very honestly with our unions and certainly it has to be a part of the evolution and the maturing of the corporation."

Wow! Vintage bafflegab! Until he got to the word 'corporation' I figured he was talking about his marriage, my teenager or a fine Bordeaux wine.

Maybe chutzpah goes with the territory. After all it was a fellow on the other side of the bargaining table — Jean Claude Parrot of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers — who, not so very long ago was wringing his hands and talking in a mortician's dolorous tones about the terrible burdens Canada Post was placing on taxpayers — this from the leader of a union which — even when it isn't engaged in slowdowns, work-to-rules, wildcats or flat-out strikes — has an on-the-job absentee rate nearly three times the national average.

Ah well. If it's any consolation, Canada has no corner on Post Office audacity. The U.S. gets its share. A few years ago the American Postal Service discovered it was losing money on every letter it delivered. Solution? The department dropped nearly three and a half million bucks on an advertising campaign encouraging Americans to write still more letters to one another. Then (here comes the chutzpah) they threw in another $775,000 for a study to ascertain how effective the campaign had been.

Meanwhile, back on our side of the border Canada Post has been cheerily spiking cutbacks with a healthy shot of chutzpah. Just this month they decided to save some money by dropping door to door mail delivery to tens of thousands of Canadian homes. Did the corporation apologize or offer to compensate the taxpayers from whom the service was being withheld? No siree. Instead, Post Office spokesmen gushed about the new "Super-mailboxes" that would soon appear in the affected neighbourhoods ... all part of a "new, improved" service.

What's a Supermailbox, you'd like to know? Well it's kind of a giant bin where all the mail for a neighbourhood gets dumped. Then you and your neighbours get to go and pick it up. Brilliant, yes? It gets the Post Office out of door to door delivery and gives residents the chance to trek on over to their Supermailbox, there to fumble with keys and frozen locks several times a week.

Still ... at least Canada Post announced that particular cutback — even if they did try to dress it up to look like an improvement.

That's more than they did for the citizens of St. Alphonse, Manitoba. Those folks lost their local post office last year, meaning residents now have to drive up to 15 miles to pick up their mail. What really burns them is the fact that the mail delivery truck still passes through St. Alphonse every day — with their mail on board. It just doesn't stop anymore.

"All the driver has to do" said one resident, "is put his foot on the clutch pedal, brake and throw the mailbag out."

Canada Post of course, doesn't see it that way. Even after an official complaint was received from a committee of St. Alphonse citizens, a postal official wrote back to say that the decision to cut off service would stand.

The letter never reached St. Alphonse, however.

Apparently it was lost in the mail.

Walking past a pond at this time of year is an almost - eerie experience. Just 2 months ago, all was bustle and chaos. Warblers, thrushes, frogs and insects filled the air with an ever-changing, almost-orchestral soundtrack from dusk, and beyond. Dragonflies zipped back and forth, while muskrats munched through luxuriant plant growth. Today, all is silent, except for the rustling of a few leaves.

For years, I wondered where everything went - how could so much life simply (end abruptly) disappear?

As usual in nature, there are many different answers.

The frogs, which lined up like dots along the shoreline, are heading offward now, below the frostline. Many, like the bullfrog, swim out from shore and dive to the bottom, where they wedge themselves under branches or logs, or into the mud itself.

Others, like the cricket frog (and American toad) seek out soft soils, often with a good humus layer which will minimize frost penetration. There, they laboriously dig and wiggle downward. Like all "cold-blooded" animals, their body temperatures float with that of their environment. As they're cooling now, their whole body function is slowing down, into a state of 'near-suspended' animation. Their heart almost stops. They slow or stop inhaling and exhaling, exchanging oxygen and carbon dioxide across their skin's surface.

The snakes are heading down too - some into rocky crevices, others head into abandoned burrows. Many head beneath ancient, rotting logs which not only act as insulators, but whose decomposition also generates heat. Recent studies on the Massasauga have been fascinating, suggesting that many snakes head for trees and stumps in swamps, when they follow paths created by loose or rotting tree roots downward to the ground water level. They submerge their bodies with just their heads projecting above the water.

The adults of most insects have been killed off by frost. For most moths and butterflies, the cocoon and chrysalis stages produced by summer's caterpillars are the future - quietly awaiting spring's emergence. For others, it's the eggs - buried in the soil, or "injected" into plants stems and bark, to which next year is entrusted. But there are always exceptions. Mourning cloak butterflies are now 'settling down' to spend the winter in hollow trees, and will be out and about, as spring's melt is still in progress.

It's a good time to go for a walk - along a pond, or a lake edge. It's time to listen to the silence.

Play delights dedicated opening night audience

Among the many things which Little Theatre actors worry about, two of the largest concerns must surely be the vicissitudes of the weather and the impact on the size of an audience and the responsiveness of the audience, particularly when the play being performed is a comedy.

The Highlands Little Theatre faced both those problems and came up laughing Thursday night. The first taste of severe winter weather had blown into the county late Thursday afternoon. Snow and ice made travel somewhat hazardous. The result, a smaller than usual opening night audience with only 49 in attendance.

An actor thrives on audience feedback. That is why so many professionals have repeated numerous times that they prefer live theatre to making movies. The response flowing from the audience, the laughs, the sighs, the poignant silences provide the instantaneous feedback needed to encourage and support an actor's effort.

Peeking out between the curtains prior to the Thursday performance, the members of the cast of "Lie, Cheat and Genuflect" must have been somewhat disappointed to see what the weather had done to their opening night crowd. However, once the lights dimmed and the curtains parted, there was little doubt that though we were poor in number, the audience was hearty in spirit. The superbly written play, from the pen of William Van Zandt and Susan Milmore, provided excellent material for the seasoned veterans and newcomers in the Highlands Little Theatre troupe.

Directed by Anne Creelman, the comedy related the seeming of two sons of a wealthy manufacturer, in their efforts to corner the lion's share of their father's substantial inheritance. The manoeuvrings of the deceased's two sons, Tom and Bill Buckle, played by Glen Carter and Jim Andrews, provided the pivot around which the story turned. The two spent their time concocting schemes and subterfuges to get their hands on the money, only to discover their plans had been thwarted. Eventually their schemes start to unravel. In the end, of course, they are saved by a few deft twists of fate, which always seem to intervene to ensure that the bunglers are indeed the heroes and that those who laboured to thwart them, received their just rewards.

This production introduced a number of new players to the HLT stage. All did an admirable job. Certainly the small audience on hand Thursday evening enjoyed their antics and responded with warm and hearty appreciation for their efforts.

Joining Little Theatre veterans Glen Carter and Jim Andrews, Doug Brohm, Bonnie Fitzgerald, Heather Scully and Debbie Dart were Doreen Clark-Steen and Michael Gilhooly, both with excellent performances. Gilhooly as the tough Mafia hood was particularly at ease on the stage playing the stereotype to the limit.

Once again the Highlands Little Theatre group has tucked another successful production under their belt. Congratulations are indeed in order.

Trussed and tossed over Billy Buckle's (Jim Andrew) shoulder, Bonnie Fitzgerald finds herself swept up in the plot of two young men scheming to acquire their father's estate. The scene was part of the Highlands Little Theatre's latest production "Lie, Cheat and Genuflect" presented last week at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School auditorium. Billy's brother Tom, played by Glen Carter, registers exasperation with his brother's latest gaffe.

A Neglected Furnace Can Be Dangerous.

The best way to ensure that your furnace is safe is to have it checked periodically by a registered heating contractor. A quick check can reveal small problems, before they become large problems.

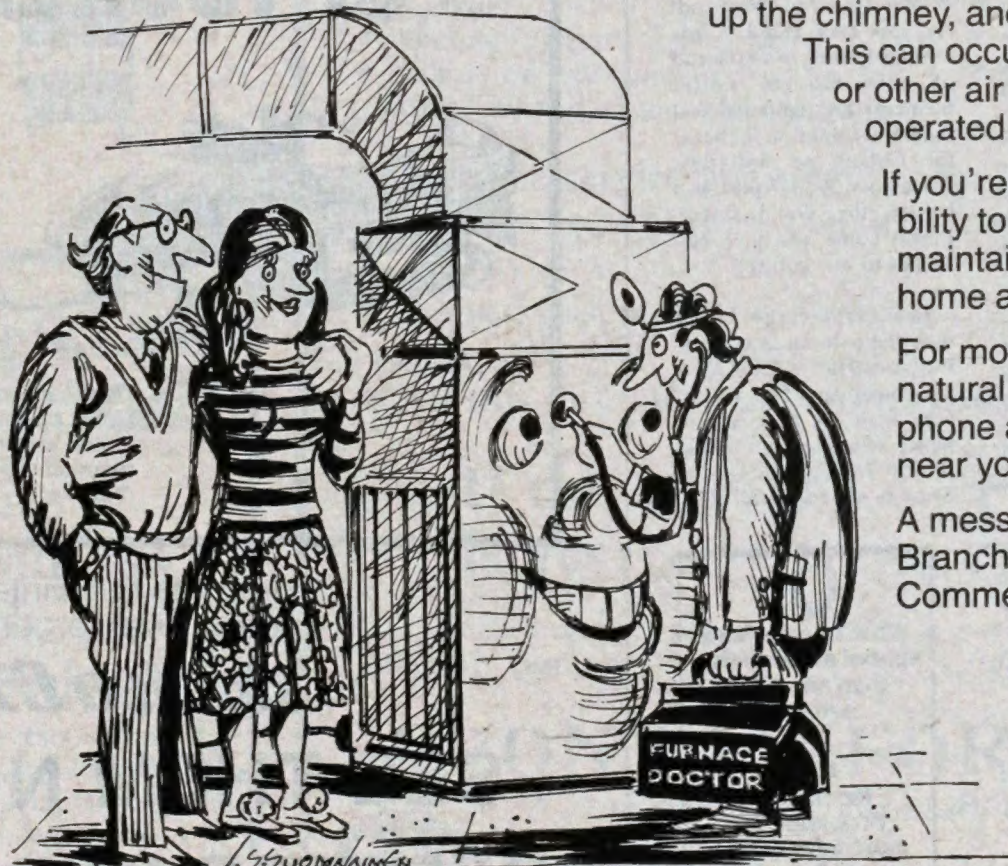

A blocked chimney or faulty furnace can cause serious health problems and even death by allowing carbon monoxide gas to spill into your home. Also, if there isn't sufficient household air for proper furnace combustion, exhaust gases may be prevented from rising up the chimney, and leak back into your home.

This can occur when the fireplace, kitchen fan or other air exhausting appliances are operated in a home.

If you're a homeowner, it's your responsibility to see that your furnace is properly maintained. A safe furnace makes your home a healthier place to be.

For more information, contact your natural gas, oil, or propane supplier. Or, phone a registered heating contractor near you.

Congratulations to Jean and Earl Casey who were the big winners on our Friday night fund raising draw! They won the weekend for two at the Four Seasons Sheraton Hotel in Toronto.

A limousine picked them up at the dance and returned them to the PineStone on Sunday. They also received two hundred dollars in spending money. They are long-time members and supporters of the Chamber of Commerce having operated Birch Point Lodge for a number of years. They were the second name to be drawn.

The first name was Dave and Sonja Stevens of Beaverbrook Golf Course. Unfortunately, they were unable to go and graciously gave up their chance that another couple might win.

As well, many other prizes were given out throughout the night. We would like to thank all of those businesses who did donate prizes for the evening and PineStone for donating the hall. It was unfortunate, however, that attendance for the evening was down, although enough tickets were sold to cover our costs for the evening.

We of the Board, and all Chamber members, should be especially thankful for the hard work of the Chamber staff and the hard work of the volunteers on the committee. Roxanne Casey, Brian Watts, and chairman, Marj Kennedy put a tremendous amount of work into this night. They arranged for the hall, tickets, prizes, band and managed to contact by phone every single Chamber member and ask them to attend or buy a ticket.

It is heartening and encouraging to see such enthusiasm and hard work given by volunteers in our Chamber. There will be other fund-raising events coming up in the months ahead. We look forward to your support to reduce the deficit.

by Gerald Irish

On Thursday, November 13, 263 students, teachers and parents boarded five buses and set off for Toronto. Their destination was the O'Keefe Centre to see the National Ballet of Canada's presentation of Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow."

Wide eyed in wonder and amazement, the students entered one of Canada's finest theatres. After being ushered to their seats, the performance started.

What settings, lighting and fantastic costumes! The ballet was done in three acts.

Act one opened at a foreign embassy with a palatial setting, crystal chandeliers, a huge stairway entering the hall and fabulously gowned and uniformed dancers.

Act two took place in a beautiful villa garden and featured balletic interpretations of folk dances. The third act featured a Can-Can routine and the Merry Widow Waltz in Maxim's, a nightclub in Europe. Once again love conquered all and the widow and her newfound lover were destined to live happily ever after.

Students, grades three to eight, from the J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School attended this ballet. An opportunity such as this does not come along every day. Tickets for the ballet cost five dollars each. The rest of the tickets' costs was absorbed by Shell Canada.

This school excursion would not have been possible if it had not been for the co-operation of the teachers and parents who travelled with and took care of all the young people. Hopefully, this visit to the ballet can be repeated next year. Thanks also to the Haliburton County Board of Education for allowing this opportunity to culturally enrich the students.

Guild news

by Virginia Muenzel

It's another busy week for the Guild and Gallery in Haliburton. We start right out on Friday evening, November 28, with the second concert of the '86-'87 series. The "Cambridge Buskers" are two merry minstrels who will delight you with their wry musical cocktail, mixed with high good humour. Dag Ingrams on accordion, and Michael Copley with his battery of flutes, recorder, ocarinas and tin whistles, are in the best tradition of English music hall performers. Time: 8:00 p.m. Place: H.H.S.S. Don't miss it!

For $20, you may still purchase season tickets for this concert plus the January 12 (Micheal Rusenek, clarinetist), February 16 (Victor & Erica Schultz, violin and piano duo) and April 6 (Eclat - woodwind quintet). A marvelous Christmas gift for anyone. One ticket is $10. Still a bargain compared to anywhere else. Tickets available at Gallery or at door.

There are still some tickets left for our Guild Dance on Saturday the 29th. It promises to be a good time. Hope to see you there.

On Wednesday, December 3, remember the car trip to the "One Of A Kind Show" in Toronto. Cars will be leaving the Gallery at 8:30 a.m. and returning around 9 p.m. Call the Gallery today if you want to go.

The Christmas Sale at the Rails' End Gallery is now in full swing. There are only twenty-eight days till Christmas, so we'd all better get down there to see what the Guild elves have created for us. Hours of the sale are Tuesday through Saturdays 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., Friday evenings til 8 p.m. and Sundays from 1 - 4 p.m. The sale ends on December 20.

Is there a reader on your Christmas list? There are several books on sale at the Gallery also. We have a good selection from Boston Mills Press, a series of books for railroad enthusiasts. For those interested in history, Leopolda Dobrensky's "Fragments of a Dream" is out in its second printing. There is a selection of wild-life books by Ron Lawrence. And for the chef of the family, a marvelous new book called "The Camp Cookbook" by T. MacDonald filled with recipes and anecdotes from a camp cook.

Don't forget, the Writer's Guild meets on December 1 at the home of June Devolin. Bring your lunch. Also, the writers have been having such a great time in Steven Patrick's creative writing class, we've decided to do it again in January, and in the spring. So if you are a closet writer, watch for the dates, and come join us. This is a fun learning experience.

There's not too many details available just yet, but if you're interested in participating, it's time to start thinking about the Spring Fashion show. All clothing must be hand crafted with uniqueness in design, texture, colour and embellishment. Jean Farrell is chairman of this venture.

The activity at the Rails' End Gallery winds down soon. The Gallery will close on December 23 and re-open on February 13 for the Winter Carnival Weekend. As you may recall, Chris Lynd is leaving us at the end of this month. Guild members are reminded that there is a reception for her at the Gallery on Saturday, November 29 at 7 p.m. just before the Guild dance. Please come and give best wishes to our curator.

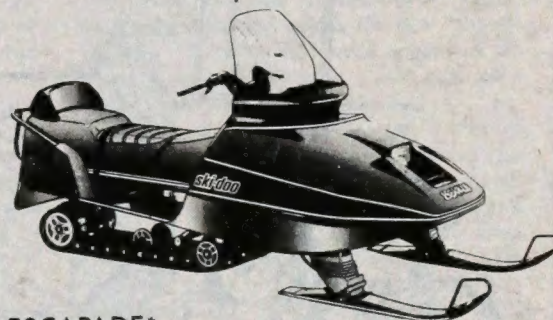

Leo Dobrensky takes over the column next week. Please call her at 457-1251 if you have any Guild news you wish to have in the paper. We really would like to hear from all the Guilds. See you at the dance.

Tree loss concerns farmer

As far as causes go, Cross does not single out air pollution as a major factor. "There are so many complex and interwoven possibilities that it's very difficult to know. It would be nice to have all the answers - but we don't. People like simple solutions, but it's not a simple problem."

Like Hutchinson, Cross believes dieback is the result of a combination of stresses, some man-made (acid rain might be one he admits) and some natural. Interestingly, he suggests the practice of some farmers of grazing their cattle in their sugar bushes could also be a factor. The hooves of the cattle, he explains, damage delicate root systems.

Asked about the response of the MNR to the maple dieback, Hutchinson becomes emphatic. "I don't know why they're denying there's a problem. In Quebec everyone knows it's serious and there's no debate in this quarter. We've been working with the growers there and you just have to talk to one of them to know that it's real and it's serious."

There are a few large-scale maple sugar operations in Haliburton County. One of the biggest is Louise Berry's 6,000 tap operation near the village of Ingoldsby. She's well aware of the dieback problem, but says her trees are almost free of it.

"It's hard to say," Berry says. "Out of our whole bush there might be 20 trees that are hard hit. But you always get a bit of that; every year some trees die and in many cases you just don't know what it was that killed them."

Berry adds that experts who have looked at her sugar bush say its in very good shape.

George Burley has a small bush in Stanhope. At present he has 500 taps. Like Berry's, his trees are healthy. And because they're well cared for and young, he doesn't anticipate any serious problems with dieback.

Meanwhile, Dwain Wruth is uneasy about the future of his syrup operation. "The trees on our land have been tapped for the last 50 years," he states. "But if the trees keep dying at the rate they have been for the last few years, 10 years down the road there'll be nothing left."

He took almost 50 dead trees out of his lot this year, he says, and there are still some to go.

Wruth does pasture some of his cattle in the bush, but that has been done for as long as his family have been tapping the trees, he says. He believes the dieback has a lot to do with acid rain.

But he knows that at this point, talk of causes, especially when they involve things like air pollution and acid rain, isn't going to get him anywhere. Right now his most pressing decision, he says, is whether or not to invest in new boiler equipment for his sugar shack.

Dwain Wruth has a sugar bush near Lochlin.

Health care review underway

- by John Eakins, MPP -

Ontario's health care system will be the subject of a comprehensive review to improve the delivery of health care services and to attack the problem of spiraling costs. Premier David Peterson announced that Dr. John Evans, former President of the University of Toronto, and a prominent physician and educator, will chair the 10-member Ontario Health Review Panel.

The need to plan for the future of our health care system was outlined in the Throne Speech. "Confronted by the changing demographics, the cost of new high-technology equipment, the demands for capital funding and the need for more community based programs, it is imperative that we begin to plan now for the provision of first-class health care well into the 21st century."

The panel will examine how best to maintain the quality and accessibility of health services while making the most effective and economical use of our health resources. As well, the growth of Ontario's elderly population and its impact on the system will be examined along with the need to shift our focus toward better health promotion and disease prevention.

Premier Peterson also said he was pleased that the Ontario Medical Association has agreed to participate in this very important review. OMA Vice-President Dr. Hugh Scully and former OMA President Dr. Murray McAdam will join the review panel.

The importance of improving our health care system becomes clear when you realize that in Ontario this year we will spend over $27 million each day providing health care services.

No other service provided by the government with taxpayers' dollars is of higher priority; nor does any other service approach health care in total per capita cost to the public purse.

Volunteer awards

I would also like to draw readers' attention to the Ministry of Citizenship Volunteer Awards Program.

In 1984, the Ministry launched the Outstanding Achievement Awards and the Volunteer Service Awards programs. Together these awards represent a means by which the provincial government thanks and recognizes the dedication and hard work that is put out by the various volunteer organizations in Victoria - Haliburton and the rest of Ontario.

Brochures and nomination forms have been mailed to non-profit organizations which work with the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture. If you know of a volunteer deserving of one of these awards, I would urge you to contact the President of the particular non-profit group or call my Constituency Office.

Dysart library addition delayed

A $30,000 addition to the Dysart library did not go through last summer because county building contractors were too busy to tender on the contract.

The contract for the 12 by 40 foot addition was advertised last June, just as Haliburton construction companies were settling into one of their busiest seasons in the last 10 years.

When the 1987 building season gets under way next spring, says Dysart clerk-treasurer Wayne Wood, the library contract will likely generate considerably more interest among construction companies.

As a result of the delay however, $6,000 earmarked by the county library board for furniture to go in the addition will have to be held back by county council - which funds the board - until next year when the work is completed.

Funds for the addition are coming from Dysart, which has chipped in $15,000, and from the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture, which provided the remaining $15,000.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report of precipitation at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset is distributed by Environment Canada. Three events were recorded during the past week.

- November 16, 3 mm of snow and rain, with a pH of 4.0 from Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and central Ontario.

- November 17, one cm of snow, pH 4.6, from Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan.

- November 20, 8 cm of snow, pH 4.5 from Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York and eastern Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Man sentenced to 45 days

A Coboconk man has been sentenced to 45 days in jail after he was found guilty of operating a snowmobile while the alcohol content in his blood exceeded the legal limit. The sentence was imposed after the man appeared in court November 19.

According to the details given, the man was stopped by the Minden OPP snowmobile patrol on January 25 of this year. The man's breath was tested with a portable device and as a result he was taken to the OPP detachment for a formal breathalyzer test, which he failed.

Convicted was Emmett Yeo of Coboconk.

The man was placed on probation and will serve his sentence on weekends. His licence was also suspended for a one year period.

Constable Brad Burkholder was the investigating officer.

Accident

Three people were injured following a two car collision last week on South Kashagawigamog Road.

According to the police, Collin Burke, 19 of Haliburton was signalling to turn left when his vehicle was struck from behind by a truck driven by 17 year old Kathleen Clarke of Wilberforce.

Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $3200.

Clarke has been charged with following too close.

The accident was investigated by Constable Mike Legge.

RIDE

During the past week, the RIDE program (Reduce Impaired Drivers Everywhere) has been in operation in the county, checking on the condition of drivers at random locations throughout the area. In that time, the patrol stopped 379 vehicles resulting in charges for impaired driving against two individuals and the issuing of three 12 hour driving suspensions.

Society meeting will discuss museum future

A meeting is planned for December 7 to determine the degree of local interest in relocating the Kanawa Canoe Museum to a location in Haliburton Village. A reading of community interest was taken several years ago and found to be strong.

In the meantime, a committee of the Haliburton County Historical Society has been working on the project. According to one of the organizers, Frank Wallace, the point has been reached in the group's effort where a rededication of community involvement and interest is required.

Wallace said the group has received the approval of two provincial ministries for the creation of a master plan for the museum. However before the society proceeds, it wants to be sure it has the backing of the community.

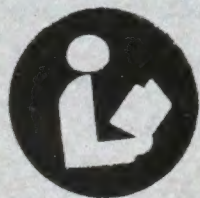

"We need interested individuals to become involved in this critical phase," the spokesman stated.

He noted the meeting will also bring the individuals up to date on what has transpired over the past three years.

The meeting is scheduled for Sunday, December 7 at Wig-A-Mog Inn on Lake Kashagawigamog. It will begin at 2 p.m.

Libraries adopt new symbol

As part of a programme designed to improve visibility of public libraries within the County, the Haliburton County Public Library Board has approved use of the International Library Symbol. The symbol will appear on buildings, stationery, materials and any other appropriate public outlets.

Designed in the early part of this decade, the symbol takes the form of the outline form of a reader in white on a blue background and has been approved for use by the Canadian Library Association. Widely used across North America, it is the only symbol in common use that serves the purpose of identification. It will be instantly recognizable by residents and tourists alike.

In commenting on the symbol, Joel Levis, County Librarian pointed out that "the symbol says 'library' and is already in use on our new signs in Dorset and Haliburton. It will become more and more meaningful to people as its use expands and more and more, it becomes obvious that the public library has something for everyone in our community."

He concluded by pointing out that "the presence of a public library is advantageous to any community and the more people know the library is there, the greater asset it is to society as a whole. If you've looked at the price of a hard cover book or even a paperback lately, then you can see the value awaiting at any public library."

Haliburton County Public Library provides contemporary level public library services to the residents of the County through ten branches and a mail service for those that are not within convenient reach of a facility.

Second big win for Redmen

Besides three periods of fine hockey, spectators at the Thursday night game between the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen and the team from Adam Scott got to see their team trounce the visitors 8-2.

The match got off to a flying start with Haliburton's first goal being scored a minute and a half into the opening period by Mike MacNaull assisted by Ted Paish and Tran LaRue.

Then in quick succession, a goal almost every two minutes—four more goals were scored by the Redmen. Assistant captain Tran LaRue scored on a pass from MacNaull and Ian Cooper at the 6:45 mark; then MacNaull from Ron Perrin at 6:00; Mike Blake from John Wells and Gord Wood at 3:25 and team captain MacNaull with his third of the period from LaRue at 1:33.

Before the end of the period Adam Scott got it's first puck into the Haliburton net.

The game continued to go heavily against Adam Scott in the second period. Three more goals were chalked up for Haliburton by Drew Mitchell on an unassisted effort and Ian Cooper who scored two. Tran LaRue assisted on both with MacNaull and Paish helping.

With eight goals to their credit and only one for Adam Scott, the Redmen could afford to take it a bit easier in the third period. However, before the end of the game, Adam Scott managed to slip by the Haliburton defence and get one more into the net.

Yesterday the Redmen travelled to Peterborough to play against Thomas A. Stewart High School. Tonight (Wednesday) the Redmen host Crestwood at Dysart arena and on Wednesday, December 3 will host Thomas A. Stewart at 7:15 p.m.

Adam Scott goalie J.P. Vernie deflects a hard drive by Redmen winger Ted Paish, 2, during a North Kawartha Boys High School Hockey league game played Wednesday at the Haliburton arena. Paish assisted on two Redmen goals in their 8-2 victory over the Peterborough high school team.

Pee Wees blank Cannington 7-0

The Minden Peewees travelled to Cannington and returned with a 7-0 win.

Robbie Ackerblade led the scoring with two for the Monarchs. Other markers came from Stephen Beaver, Jason Scarlett, Oliver Greer, Mike Muli and Darren Sawyer. Credited with assists were Wyatt Nesbitt, Jamie Dollow and Phillip Boyle.

Pee Wee goalie Aaron Hie was honoured for his shut-out performance.

Assists were awarded to Campbell with two and singles to Stamp, Dave Rogers, Scott Reid, Ben Manuge, Harold Cowen, Carl Northey and Brett Austin.

Scoring for the Rockcliffe team were Ted Vasey with a pair, Kevin Hamilton, Jim Keetch and Dave Pettes with singles. Keetch also picked up an assist. Assists were awarded to Doug Thain and Greg Carpenter with a pair and Barry Shaw and Barry Boice each with singles.

The closest game of the evening proved to be the one with all the scoring, as Vasey edged Hall's 10-9. Dave Hartwick led the Vasey attack with five goals, two of those unassisted. He was also credited with an assist on another marker. Larry Sawyer scored a pair of goals and picked up three assists for the winning team with singles going to Barry Walker, also with an assist and a goal by an unidentified player. Additional assists went to John Buchanan, Andy Campbell and John McKelvey. McKelvey assisted on two.

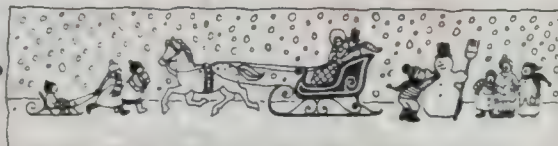

Terry Crowe was the leading Hall's scorer with four goals. Bernie Upton picked up a pair while singles went to Ed Gibbon, Dave Brown and Lawrence Loughheed. His goal was unassisted. The assists for Hall's went to Dave Brown with five, Bernie Upton with four and Ed Gibbons with three.

The teams take to the ice again this Monday evening. Hall's play Rockcliffe in the opening match at 7 p.m., Home takes on Vasey at 8:30 p.m. and Hartwick plays The Times at 10 p.m. All games are played at the Minden arena. Admission is free.

Latch key children need program

by Faith Aggett

We have been concentrating our articles on the family with a preschool child, but I think there is another age group of children that needs some attention. They have come to be known as the "Latch Key Kids" - the children between the ages of 6 and 12 years whose parents are still at work when they arrive home from school.

In our area, the dangers of leaving this age group for a few hours on their own may not seem as crucial as in metropolitan centres. Some may argue that it builds a child's character to have some responsibility and a little independence.

For some, that may be true and only the parent can judge how comfortable a situation that is for the family members. But, I am sure that there are an equal number of children who have not reached that level of maturity and resent the empty reception at the end of the day.

It is assumed that by age twelve, the child would be able to look after herself for brief time periods.

So, we face the question of what is available as an after school programme. As far as I know, unless the parent takes the initiative to enrol the child into various extra-curricular activities, there is nothing. These programmes can be costly, especially if you have more than one child! Added complications arise in scheduling times and transportation. For the working parents, it often proves to be too much, and to gain some sanity to their lives, they withdraw their children from the lessons. There is only so much that can be accomplished in one day. But - the old problem returns - what to do with these children.

I would like to see in a central location, a common ground, on a regular bus route, where children could have supervised care on a regular basis. A special activity could be scheduled for those 1 - 2 hours each day. Perhaps one day as an arts and crafts lesson, organized outdoor activities another day, perhaps a science day, or theatrical lessons. Have a games day to enjoy those timeless favourites of checkers, snakes and ladders, Parcheesi, etc.

I am sure there are many talented adults in our community who would be willing to share their time and skills with our youth. We could involve the willing seniors of our area to share the richness of their experiences.

Transportation would be simplified by having the same location daily and picking the children up after work could soon become a regular routine.

Cost? I guess that would depend on how involved the community became. Whether we had enough volunteers or had to hire some extra staff. It could depend on the interest shown by parents and children and how large an enrolment in such a programme.

I happen to think it would be a very enriching experience. However, maybe the reason nothing like this is happening is because it is too ambitious and there is no interest. It is a thought ... if you would like to see something similar become concrete, give me a call at 286-1831 and we'll share some ideas.

An enthusiastic crowd of area residents took advantage of the annual Christmas luncheon and bazaar at St. Paul's Anglican Church last Friday. In addition to a delicious meal, the visitors had an opportunity to purchase baked goods and handmade gifts at the sale.

senior league

by Pearl Lyle

Well folks, it really looks like winter is here. We have had two bus trips this last two weeks. Doris took us to Huntsville to shop in the new mall. It is a real nice one. Then on Tuesday night we went to see the dress rehearsal of the play they are putting on in Haliburton on the weekend. I understand it was very successful.

The ladies from the Gospel Lighthouse at Haliburton came on Thursday with our tea party goodies, which were delicious, followed by music and singing. It was really enjoyed by all present. Winnie Barnum returned Friday evening from Kingston where she visited her mother who is in hospital there.

Mr. Brohm had his son in from Lindsay to visit him Saturday morning and in the evening his son and wife from Toronto came.

We had lovely music and singing in the auditorium on Saturday evening by The Perry Family. It was certainly appreciated by all who attended and we sure hope they will come again.

Our church services on Sunday evening were conducted by Rev. J. Burgess assisted by Mr. Thompson, and on Tuesday morning by Rev. Spencely of the United Church, who is taking charge until the new minister arrives.

Dora Dawson attended the bazaar and dinner at the Anglican Church in Minden. They had quite a crowd. It was as usual quite a success.

A merry heart doeth good like medicine.

See you next week.

Drivers available

Donna Bailey,
Executive Director

Transportation for seniors (55 years and older) and disabled persons is available through Haliburton County Home Support Services to go to appointments, to go shopping or to go visiting both locally and out of town.

If you require transportation please phone our office at 457-2941 two or three days in advance and we will do our best to arrange a ride for you with a volunteer driver through our transportation convention, Bob Hollobon.

The cost of a return trip is based on 9c per kilometre or 13c per mile with a minimum charge of $5.00. For example a return trip to Peterborough from Haliburton would cost $25.00 plus a reasonable fee for the volunteer driver's meals and parking.

If you would like to be a volunteer driver, please contact our office any weekday. We would be pleased to discuss any questions you may have especially in regards to insurance etc. We are located in the Drag River Municipal Building opposite Emmerson Lumber. Our phone number is 457-2941.

Minden W.I.

There were nineteen members present at the November 19 meeting of Minden Women's Institute at the Library Cultural Centre. Mrs. C. Lacey, our president, welcomed us all and after the usual opening, we heard reports. The report from Mrs. W. Moore had 15 cards sent since the last meeting and collections for Card Fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken. There was also a letter from Mrs. Oliver of Hyland Crest thanking us for good wishes sent to her, also she had included a clipping from an English newspaper about their W.I., and this was rather amusing. Mrs. A. Coulter then read "How to Cook a Husband".

Mrs. C. Wilson, our delegate, gave us a refund on her expenses and a very enlightening report of the Area Convention at Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

There was some discussion about having workshops on smocking garments and webbing lawn chairs with further details at the next meeting. The meeting adjourned and Auctioneer Verla sold all the articles turning in on the Roll Call. Then all enjoyed a cup of tea and snacks. Next month is the Christmas meeting with exchange of $2 gifts and is at the United Church Hall, December 17 at 2 and we welcome all ladies.

CHILD TAX CREDIT PREPAYMENT PROGRAM

$300 Per Child

If you qualify, your cheque is in the mail.

Who Qualifies?

You'll automatically receive an advance payment of $300 per child if you meet the following conditions:

- Your net family income in 1985 was $15,000 or less,
- You have a dependent child or children who will be under 18 years of age on December 31, 1986,
- You received a child tax credit this year for that child or those children.

Why is the government doing this?

The advance payment, a part of the child tax credit, is designed to assist over 750,000 low-income families with children. Among other things, it will reduce the pressure on these families to discount their child tax credit cheque.

What about the rest of my credit?

To receive the rest of your 1986 child tax credit simply fill out the child tax credit form on your 1986 income tax return. The maximum credit per child is $454.00, up from $384.00 in 1985.

And if I don't qualify for the advance payment?

If you received Family Allowance for a child or children this year, you may still be eligible for a maximum or partial credit. To find out, simply fill out the Child Tax Credit form on your 1986 income tax return.

For more information

See the insert in your November Family Allowance cheque or contact your nearest district taxation office. (The number and address are in the government pages of your telephone book).

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Branch 129 news

by Gerald Irish

On Sunday, November 23, the members from Branch 129 attended the Zone F4 Convention in Bobcaygeon. Haliburton had the largest representation of all 12 branches there. The President of each branch submitted a report on the various activities and undertakings going on at their own branches.

It was very interesting to see the political moves being made by the various candidates running for Zone and District offices in the upcoming elections. These elections promise to be very interesting.

District Charitable Foundation Chairman Doug Worrall reported that $230,000.00 has been donated to hospitals for medical equipment and research.

We also learned that your Legion Provincial Command sponsors the "Elmer, the Safety Elephant" programmes all across Ontario. This is a project that brings safety messages, posters, cartoons, colouring books, etc. to our children, encouraging them to play and live safely.

Every time we attend a Zone or District meeting, we are impressed by Legion's involvement in the local communities and indeed, the whole province.

The 12 Legions in Zone F4 had a total membership of 3692 as of October, 1986. This number is made up of 93 life members, 2185 ordinary members and 1414 associates. Since that date, membership has grown in most of the branches.

Have you noticed the large Bluegrass sign at the entrance to Haliburton village? As you drive past the engine and plane near the High School, look ahead and up. There it is, announcing the 1987 Legion Bluegrass Festival, August 7, 8 and 9.

On Sunday evening we were contacted by Jim Higgins of Lindsay. Jim was one of the M.C.'s of Bluegrass '86 in Haliburton. He informed us that the Canadian Bluegrass Awards Show will be held on December 6 at the Academy Theatre in Lindsay. This promises to be a fantastic show, running from 6:30 p.m. to midnight, with eight Bluegrass groups performing. If you would like to have a "jam session" with some of these people, the Moose Hall in Lindsay will be open from 12 noon to 5 p.m. for your musical enjoyment and involvement.

If you are interested in attending the awards show, please let me know before this coming Saturday and I'll reserve tickets for you. Jim has only 150 tickets available. Leave your name and phone number with Jim at the Branch office. Tickets are $7.50 advance sale.

While we are on the subject of Bluegrass, the group that headlined the Bluegrass Festival here this summer, "The Boys from Indiana" will be at your Legion on March 21. They are willing to do two shows on that day - one matinee and one evening show. This highly entertaining, popular group is very professional and put on a fantastic show.

George Cox has donated a beautiful oil painting to be raffled off at your Branch on
